Montaillou is based on the meticulous, early 14th-century records of inquisitor-bishop Jacques Fournier (later Pope Benedict XII, r. 1334-42) who successfully hunted to the ground the Albigensian heresy in its final outpost, the remote area around a small village in the southwest mountain region of what today is France.

Montaillou - The Promised Land of Error - Amazon.co.uk:--

Montaillou was a village in southern France that suffered an inquisitorial investigation in the mid-14th century because of a recrudescence of the Cathar heresy (which had been "eradicated" in the previous century, or so the Church believed).

MONTAILLOU - The Promised Land of Error by Emmanuel Le Roy:--

Montaillou is a book by the French historian Emmanuel Le Roy Ladurie first published in 1975. It was first translated into English in 1978 by Barbara Bray, and has been subtitled The Promised Land of Error and Cathars and Catholics in a French Village. Montaillou was Ladurie's "most important and popular work". Ladurie used the inquisitorial records of Jacques Fournier to reconstruct the lives of the inhabitants of Montaillou in the Ariège. The work was part of the historical anthropology ...
